

Supplementary Fig. S1 Single-factor resistance surface in the SRB. In the study, the natural breaks method was used to classify each single-factor resistance surface into levels 1–5, where the first level has the lowest resistance value, and the fifth level has the highest resistance value.