

Fig. S3 Heat map of differential metabolites in each comparison group

Note: The heatmap on the left side of the figure represents the differential status of metabolites across comparison groups, with red indicating upregulation and green indicating downregulation. The heatmap on the right side illustrates the abundance of metabolites in each sample, with the color gradient from blue to red signifying abundance levels from low to high.