

Figure S5. Floral sepal length of tomato lines overexpressing VviSOC1a compared to wild type. Bars represent the mean and standard error of three biological replicates ($n = 3$), from two independently transformed lines, where (*) indicates low ($P \leq 0.1$) significant differences compared to the wild type.